GRAD-SCHOOL SURVIVAL

What (Nearly) Every Academic Paper Needs
Betsy Wallace
• Wednesday, March 31, 1200–1300

What are the common elements of academic papers at NPS? What do professors expect? Come and learn how the building blocks of academic papers fit together, making your papers more readable, complete, and academic. In this comprehensive overview, you’ll learn about paper intros, conclusions, thesis statements, roadmaps, research questions, hypotheses, literature reviews, abstracts, citation styles, NPS resources, and more!

Mastering Note-Taking and Time Management
Cheryldee Huddleston
• Wednesday, March 31, 1300–1430

You take notes and learn the subject matter, so why is it so difficult to communicate your knowledge during tests? And where does all the time go? Knowing a few key strategies can make all the difference. This workshop will provide you with winning techniques for studying more effectively, taking useful notes, preparing for exams, and performing better during tests; you’ll also receive practical, step-by-step methods for a “time investment” daily schedule.

Understanding Paper Types and Prompts
Chloe Woida
• Saturday, April 3, 1200–1330

You’ve just received a prompt for a class paper. You read it once, then twice, and still can’t figure out what you’re being asked to do or what kind of paper you’re supposed to write. Sound familiar? This workshop will identify types of papers you may be asked to write at NPS and offer strategies for decoding and understanding instructors’ prompts.

Strategic Reading, Level I: Social Sciences and Business
Michelle Morneau
• Tuesday, March 30, 1730–1900
• Saturday, April 3, 1000–1130
• Friday, April 9, 1200–1330

So much reading, so little time! Learn and practice Dr. Zach Shore’s method of reading for argument at the graduate level in this workshop, tailored to social science and business fields. Dr. Shore’s “search and destroy” technique allows you to comprehend and synthesize an author’s arguments efficiently. Level I teaches the “search” half—how to quickly extract an author’s thesis and structure from an academic article. Though this method may take time to perfect, once you do, the payoff is high in terms of comprehension, time saved, and enhanced critical thinking skills. Also, be sure to check out Strategic Reading Level II, which offers techniques for analyzing sources’ arguments.

Strategic Reading, Level I: STEM Fields
Abby McConnell
• Wednesday, April 14, 1000–1130

So much reading, so little time! Adapted from Dr. Zach Shore’s method of reading for argument at the graduate level, this new workshop is tailored to science, technology, engineering, and mathematics fields. Learn and practice reading techniques that allow you to comprehend and synthesize an author’s arguments efficiently. This workshop teaches how to quickly extract an author’s thesis and structure from an academic article. Though this method may take time to perfect, once you do, the payoff is high in terms of comprehension, time saved, and enhanced critical thinking skills. Also, be sure to check out Strategic Reading Level II, which offers techniques for analyzing sources’ arguments.

Technical Writing
Jasmine Mally
- Thursday, April 8, 1000–1130

Are you more comfortable solving equations than drafting sentences? Come focus on the precise skills you need to write clear technical reports and theses. In this workshop, we will dissect a well-written report, decide what makes it effective, identify steps you can use to emulate its features, and review editing and proofreading strategies appropriate for technical writing.

RESEARCH AND CITATION

Citation Management with Zotero
Kathy Norton or Glen Koué
- Friday, April 9, 1000–1150
- Friday, April 16, 1000–1150
- Friday, April 23, 1000–1150

Learn how to use Zotero, a free tool that you can use to centrally collect, manage, and format your references in APA, Chicago, IEEE, and other citation styles. We will also show you how to use Zotero’s Word plug-in to cite while you write your papers or thesis. This workshop is “hands-on,” so bring your own laptop! Workshop size is limited, and registration at least 24 hours in advance is required. After registering, you will receive an email with installation and setup instructions, which you will need to complete prior to the class.

Paraphrasing and Quoting Like a Pro
Sandra Leavitt and Greta Marlatt
- Monday, April 5, 1000–1130

You’ve all heard what you shouldn’t be doing: don’t violate the Honor Code, don’t plagiarize, don’t forget the rules of academic integrity. This workshop focuses on what to do to avoid these serious problems. We give you the skills to confidently incorporate others’ words, ideas, analyses, models, and images into your own writing. You will gain experience summarizing, paraphrasing, and incorporating quotations from source material.

Library Quick Start
Kathy Norton
- Tuesday, April 6, 1200–1250
- Wednesday, April 14, 1200–1250

Develop your research skills and learn how to use the library search, library databases, research guides, Google Scholar, and more!

LaTeX Crash Course for Student Research
Dan Eisenberg, Britta Hale, and Douglas Van Bossuyt
- Monday, April 12, 1400–1500

Does your professor want you to use LaTeX to write your thesis or dissertation? Are you passionate about beautifully formatted equations? Do you want to leave the formatting woes of Microsoft Word behind for a brighter tomorrow with LaTeX? If you answered yes to these questions or are just curious about LaTeX, please join us for a LaTeX crash course that will introduce you to using LaTeX to write your thesis or dissertation. In one hour we will introduce you to the fundamentals of LaTeX so that you are equipped with the skills needed to start using LaTeX immediately.

CRITICAL THINKING

Strategic Reading, Level II: How to Critique a Text
Betsy Wallace
- Tuesday, April 6, 1300–1430
- Thursday, April 15, 1530–1700

Level II teaches the “destroy” half of Dr. Zach Shore’s “search and destroy” technique. This workshop prepares you for class discussions, argument papers, thesis writing, and more. Learn how to examine a text for its strengths and weaknesses. Identify how authors build and support their arguments, then develop your own critical response by evaluating an author’s empirical and logical evidence.

Crafting Convincing Arguments: Attack and Defense
Daniel Lehnherr
- Tuesday, April 6, 1000–1130

You employ persuasion every day, but are you comfortable crafting formal academic arguments? This workshop covers the strategies and conventions of written argumentation that are essential to your NPS studies and career. Hands-on exercises help you organize your lines of attack, remedy any gaps in your defense, anticipate your adversary’s counterargument, and deliver the decisive blow through a convincing refutation.

Debating with Your Sources: They Say/I Say
Cheryldee Huddleston
• Monday, April 5, 1300–1430

Do your academic readings make you feel like an outsider? Don’t remain an unheard voice in the wilderness: learn how to construct your paper as a “conversation with others.” In this workshop, inspired by the popular writing book, They Say/I Say, you will learn through hands-on activities the methods that scholars use to engage in larger debates. Your readers will understand you better, and you will stand on equal footing with the writers in your field.

Critical Thinking in Review
Alison Scharmota
• Wednesday, April 7, 1000–1130

Imagine a conversation among all the scholars who have contributed to your research topic. Assessing the strengths, weaknesses, agreements, and disagreements of their combined wisdom is the essence of a literature review. Using the Just War Theory, this workshop presents two examples of capturing the “conversation” and helps you identify the differences between review and critical analysis. Through guided discussion, you will be better equipped to understand and write literature reviews.

PLANNING AND ORGANIZATION
Organization: The Secret to Academic Writing
Matt Norton
• Friday, April 2, 1200–1300

Academic, or research-based writing is distinct from other forms of writing: our primary purpose is to describe knowledge, which, at the graduate level, is most likely to address the logical connections between ideas—a task that calls for structured writing. This workshop introduces basic techniques that produce readable papers—comprehensive introductions, topic sentences, and embedding structure in language—and effective tools for composition. You will learn a systematic process for learning and writing that will focus your effort where it counts the most.

Writing for Online Outlets
Kate Egerton
• Friday, April 2, 1000–1130

Do you want to impact broader military and security discussions? Learn to pitch, scope, draft, and revise short pieces for online outlets such as The Strategy Bridge and War on the Rocks. In this workshop, we will review submission requirements, learn from published writing, and show how writing coaches can help you shape your pieces for these audiences and specs.

Writing for Academic Journals
Kate Egerton
• Saturday, April 10, 1000–1130

Learn to target appropriate academic journals for your discipline, decode submission requirements, query editors, prepare manuscripts, and address wider audiences for your academic research. This workshop covers the basics of academic publication, common obstacles, and models for adapting your research for publication as a journal article.

MECHANICS, GRAMMAR, AND STYLE
Mastery Series: Grammar
Jasmine Mally
• Thursday, April 1, 1000–1130

Review examples of common grammar errors students make in their writing. The common errors covered include subject-verb agreement, use of relative clauses, connecting and punctuation of clauses, pronoun-antecedent agreement, and spotting and changing passive voice to active. You’ll first learn the rule to avoid or fix these errors, then practice it in a hands-on activity.

Mastery Series: Punctuation
Michael Thomas
• Monday, April 12, 1000–1130

Small symbols with great power, punctuation marks can do it all—connect ideas, convey tone, clarify meaning. Used incorrectly, however, they can undermine your writing, distract and confuse readers, and diminish confidence in your academic work. In this workshop, we cover the most common punctuation marks in graduate writing. Examples, quizzes, and detailed explanations ensure that you leave with a solid grasp of everything from em dashes to Oxford commas—including that most mysterious mark of all, the semicolon.
Mastery Series: Clarity and Concision
Alison Scharmota
• Tuesday, April 13, 1300–1430

Learn which conventions are rules, NPS norms, and style tips, all of which will help you masterfully put your words to work for you! Excellent clarity and concision stands as the core goal at the graduate and professional level of writing, so we have put together some writing master tips to make your life easier and your writing sassier in just 90 minutes.

Strategies for Active-Voice Writing
Matt Norton
• Tuesday, April 13, 1000–1130

Overusing passive voice is one of the most common stylistic blunders in academic writing; it can be hard to identify and tricky to fix. At the same time, passive voice does have its uses. This workshop will explain what passive voice looks like and why in most cases active constructions are a better choice. Lessons and activities will show you how to transform passive-voice sentences and also identify situations when you might want to use them. You will leave with strategies to select the best possible verbs, to craft more interesting prose, and to express your ideas more clearly.

Mastering the Literature Review
Colette O’Connor
• Thursday, April 1, 1530–1700

A master’s degree requires mastering a field, and that mastery is demonstrated in a literature review, a required component of most theses and many papers. It is not, as is often believed, a multi-title book review. It is, rather, a comprehensive evaluation of the literature relevant to your research question. More than a summary, it identifies strengths and inadequacies in the existing literature, which dovetails with your goal of adding new knowledge to your field. In this workshop, you will learn how literature reviews are constructed and how to make yours justify your research.

Thesis Quick Start
Glen Koué
• Wednesday, April 7, 1200–1250
• Tuesday, April 13, 1200–1250

Is it time to begin your thesis? Not sure how to start? This workshop will cover academic research and writing in general, as well as the specifics of the NPS thesis process. Learn how to navigate the process and launch your thesis with confidence.

Writing about Tables and Figures
Sandra Leavitt
• Friday, April 16, 1230–1400

Will your thesis have four or 84 figures? Images in academic writing need to be skillfully discussed in both the body of your paper and in captions. We will practice writing about flow charts, graphs, set-off quotes, and tables. A simple formula will help you consistently and professionally describe figures and their sources, and explain to your readers how each image supports your argument.
